Hi Douglas,

Bill has let me know after the fact that he had asked Lynne to do provide him with maps: one of the sacred sites in the Black Hills and one of the mine site locations. She has already gave him these two maps that looked really spiffy, so I thought she was finished & didn't realize this was an ongoing effort. I will check in with her to find out the scope of what he has asked her to do. Bill seems really map-focused and wants to document where all the sacred sites and mine sites are located in a GIS map. I keep trying to tell him this is "big-picture," that we are looking at the Black Hills as a whole. He is very detail-oriented.

After talking with Lynne, I might ask you to sit in on a check-in meeting so he can hear the scope from you. Would that be OK?

Thanks for letting me know!

Hi Valois: I know Bill is working on the above to support your work on DB. I learned from Lynne today that he has asked her to do some mapping to support what he is drafting. I just wanted you to be aware of this and to consider checking in with him or Lynne on his request. From what Lynne said today, this mapping may be fairly time consuming so I wanted to make sure her efforts/time were commensurate with your expectations.

She is also working on rearranging the BA for ESA in response to Lucita's general comments. I told her I would be drafting a new timeframe to send to Fish updating the milestones we sent them before the shutdown.

Thanks,
